

Rulebook for Chef Carousel

Disclaimer

This game is designed for entertainment purposes only. We respect and value all eating habits, dietary preferences, and cultural traditions. No offence or disrespect is intended toward any cuisine or culture.

Our Team

Designed by Group 10: Tiancheng Zhang, Xiaoyi Wang, Dongjie Ge, Xinyao Yu, Jindi He

Game Introduction

Title: Chef Carousel

Mechanics:

- Action Selection
- Hand Management
- Push Your Luck
- Area Control
- Tile Placement
- Take That
- Card Drafting
- Dice Rolling
- Variable Player Powers

Time To Play: 40 minutes - 60 minutes

Target Audience: 6+ Age who like board games or cooking.

Theme: In "Chef Carousel", players will play the role of temporary chefs and spies, working together to prepare three meals for seven days, and at the same time, find out the spies hidden among the players who are ready to cause trouble. The game successfully combines teamwork and competition elements, bringing endless joy to players.

Game Instruction

Setup

- How To Place The Board:
 - Put All Dish Cards At Card Deck
 - Put Green, Red and Brown Cubes Next To The Board
 - Put The Yellow Checker On Day 1
 - Put The Black Checker At Breakfast
 - Put The Red Checker On The Allergy/Preference Card On the Board
 - Put The Little Black Figure Next To The Today's Suspect.
 - Each Player takes one "Must-Know Rule" manual to understand the basic operation.
-

Objective

- As a team, you need to win at least four days, to win each day, at least complete 2 meals. Six points for each meal. If you win four days or lose 4 days, the game will end.
 - At the same time, each day's winner will be given tokens. Temporary cooks must try their best to complete each meal, the spies must try to ruin the meal. If the temporary cooks successfully make 2 meals, for example, breakfast and lunch, they will be given one token as a reward, and the day will be marked with a green cube, which means one day of success. If the spies successfully ruin 2 meals, they will be given one token as a reward, and the day will be marked with a red cube, which means one day of failure.
-

Gameplay

- At the beginning of the game
 - Shuffle the character cards and face down, each player randomly takes one. Keep character cards face up.
- At the beginning of each day
 - Each player rolls the 30-sided dice. The player who has the greatest number becomes the Chef of breakfast.
 - If it's not the first day, give your character card to the next player on your left. Keep character cards face up.
 - Shuffle all the identity cards (labelled temporary cook and spy), and each player randomly takes one. Keep identity cards face down.
- At the beginning of each meal

- If it's breakfast, each player draws three dish cards from the deck, and the chef draws one more (four). If it's lunch or dinner, each player draws one dish card from the deck.
- The chef decides the order of play for this meal (start from the chef's right or left). The chef is the last one to play dish cards.
- The chef rolls the 6 sided dice to decide this meal's restriction: allergy or preference. Then put the red checker on the Allergy/Preference Card (bottom) to show the current meal's restriction.
- Each player has one action point (the chef has two). All the players must use all action points in their turn.
- The player who is next to the chef starts to play and then follows the order (The chef decides the order of play for the meal). Each player must put the dish cards in the right place. For example, players must put dessert in the Dessert area. Each area's points only depend on the card at the top, which means your cards may be covered by others, except if you use your character's abilities on the cards, then your cards cannot be covered.
- However, the dish cards are worth zero points if they meet this meal's allergy or don't meet the preference. For example, if this meal's allergy is seafood, then seafood cards are worth zero points. If this meal's preference is meat lover, then only dish cards with meat labels will be counted for points.
- The chef is the last one who plays dish cards. The chef can choose to place dish cards on board or take away one dish card and put it in hand. The chef can only take one dish card for each meal. If there are seasoning cards in the Magic Seasoning area, the chef has to put each seasoning card on a dish card and roll the dice to decide if it will make the dish better or worse. 1, 2, 3 is bad, 4, 5, 6 is good. The seasoning cards will add/remove 1 point for 1 point card and 2 points for 2 points card.
- Then it's time to calculate points for this meal, add all points to see if there are 6 points. If there are 6 or more points, it means this meal is successfully made; put one green cube next to the meal name. If not, this meal is ruined, put one brown cube next to the meal name.
- Now it's time to vote for the suspect, the one with the most votes cannot use abilities for the next meal. If there's a tie, nobody gets banned. Players cannot be banned twice a day. Put the Little Black Figure next to the suspect's name.
- Now the chef decides the next chef for the next meal. Players cannot be chefs twice a day.
- This meal ends and puts all cards from each area on board to Food Waste. Move on to the next meal. If there are no cards in the deck, shuffle the cards from Food Waste and put them back in the deck.
- Move on to the next meal if the day has not ended.

- If two meals are completed or two meals are ruined, the day ends. Reveal the identity cards.
 - If two meals are completed, give one green token to temporary cooks. If two meals are ruined, give one red token to spies.
 - Put all cards from areas and hands in Food Waste. Move on to the next day.
 - If the players win four days or lose 4 days, the game will end. Now count the number of each player's tokens, the one with the most tokens wins the game. This game can have multiple winners.
 - The winner(s) wear the chef's hat and hold the golden spatula. Take a photo of the winner(s)!
-

Special Rules

- If it's a five-player game, there are 3 temporary cooks and 2 spies.
- If it's a five-player game, there are 4 temporary cooks and 2 spies.
- If the player only has one card and it cannot be put into any area, put the card at Food Waste.
- Each player can only be banned once a day.
- Each player can only be the chef once a day.
- The players can only spend 10 seconds voting.
- The players can only spend 15 seconds on abilities which are about taking cards.
- Each area's points only depend on the card at the top.
- Seasoning cards will not take effect immediately, only when it's the chef's turn. The chef must use all the seasonings in the Magic Seasoning area.
- If there's an ability card on a dish card, the dish card cannot be covered by any other cards except the seasoning.
- The seasoning cards will add/remove 1 point for 1 point card and 2 points for 2 points card. Roll the dice to decide if it will make the dish better or worse. 1, 2, and 3 are removing points. 4, 5, and 6 are adding points.
- The players take back their ability cards at the end of the meal.
- The players can only use abilities once per meal.
- Players who play Doctor Smart and Doctor Wise must use their abilities, other characters can decide whether to use their abilities or not.

Character Abilities (Once per meal)

- Dr. Smart: Doctor Test (Passive Ability). The player must roll the dice after placing a dish card (except the seasoning). If the dice is 1/2/3, the card you just placed is worth zero points. Put Doc Overcooked It on the top of the dish card. If the dice is 4/5/6, the card you just placed doubles the points. Put Doc Made It on the top of the dish card. Other players cannot put any dish cards except the seasoning in that area.

- Dr. Wise: Dr. Wise's Decision (Passive Ability). If the player wins the day, Dr. Wise will get one more point. If the player loses the day, Dr. Wise will deduct 1 point (can't be zero).
- Bear Jr.: Bear Bear Arena (Active Ability). The player can choose to challenge someone at the beginning of their turn. Roll the dice first. Then, choose one player and let them roll the dice. The one who just rolled a greater number wins, the winner can randomly take one card from the loser's hand. If there's a tie, keep rolling the dice until someone wins.
- Ghost. W: Ghost Dark Power (Active Ability). The player views 3 cards from the top of the deck. Roll the dice. If it's 1, put those 3 cards you just saw back in the deck. If it's 6, get all 3 cards. If it's 2, 3, 4 or 5, choose 1 card from 3, then put the rest back in the deck.
- Robot Super: (Active Ability). Get one more action point.
- Grape Cat: The Kitten's Magic Medicine (Active Ability). After placing one dish card (except the seasoning), the player can put an Anti-Allergy/Preference Card on top of it to ignore today's allergy or preference to secure the points.

Declaration

We hereby declare that the ChatGPT artificial intelligence tool assisted in generating some of the dishes' names (cards) and the pictures on the manuals. However, the team members raised the 100% original game's concept, completed the game design process and finished the rulebook without any AI tools.